Description

Boomio is on a mission to make digital customer loyalty tools available to small and medium businesses.

Right now, such tools are only available to the enterprise segment, as developing them in-house costs thousands.

We have built an online platform and a mobile app that allows businesses to create and manage their own rewards & loyalty system.

For that we're looking for a Node developer to further platform development.

What will you do

- Take ownership of the backend platform development
- Help design and implement new features

What will you bring

- 4+ years of experience with Node
- Preferred experience with ReactJS
- Working to improve and maintain the reliability and availability of our services.
- Actively troubleshooting any issues that arise during testing and deployment, catching and solving issues before launch.
- Continued technical growth through constant experimentation, learning, and rapid project iteration.
